

Incentives-based Design for onboarding Legal Service Providers Profiles

A single platform for all the legal service providers for extending legal services for citizens in India

Need of Incentive Based Legal Service Platform

Need of having a Legal service platform

1. A Website Is Your Online City Hall

Despite the critical importance of a website in today's world, too many municipalities still do not have an online presence

2. A Website Offers More Transparent Government and Encourages More Active Residents

It is difficult and inconvenient to stay informed about city council activity when residents must show up in person—either to city council meetings or to City Hall to access meeting times, agendas, and minutes. Placing these materials online creates a more transparent government by making information easily accessible.

3. A Website Offers Online Services to Residents

Many people are used to paying bills, accessing services, and interacting with organizations online.

Also, our society is not as 9-to-5 as it was in the past. People work multiple jobs at all hours, run their kids to school and activities, and travel a lot. It helps if people can pay taxes and fines, submit a business license, or sign up for a utility service online.

Problem Statement:

Incentives based Design for onboarding Legal Service Providers such as Advocates, Arbitrators, Mediators, Notaries, Document Writers, etc on eMarket Place for extending Legal Services to Citizens in India

WE HAVE CONSIDERED THE FAKE NEWS DETECTION SYSTEM AS A TWO PART PROBLEM BASED ON THE PROBLEM STATEMENT-OFFENCE AND DEFENCE

► Offence:

"Designing an Incentive-Based Strategy for the Onboarding of Legal Service Providers, including Advocates, Arbitrators, Mediators, Notaries, Document Writers, etc., onto an eMarketplace with the Aim of Facilitating Access to Legal Services for Indian Citizens.

► Defence:

Defending the Proposal for an Incentive-Based Design to Onboard Legal Service Providers, encompassing Advocates, Arbitrators, Mediators, Notaries, Document Writers, and others, onto an eMarketplace. The primary goal is to Enhance Access to Legal Services for the Citizens of India.

PROBLEMS WITH EXISTING SYSTEMS

1. Unorganized Sector: The legal service sector remains largely unorganized, causing inefficiencies in service delivery.
2. Fragmented Service Providers: Legal professionals, including advocates, arbitrators, mediators, notaries, and document writers, operate independently. This fragmented approach lacks a centralized platform for clients.
3. Lack of Transparency: The absence of a centralized platform leads to a lack of transparency in service offerings, making it challenging for clients to make informed choices.
4. Difficulty in Finding Experts: Clients face difficulties in identifying and connecting with the right legal service provider for their specific needs due to the decentralized nature of legal services.
5. High Costs: The absence of a competitive marketplace often results in high costs for clients, making legal services less accessible.
6. Tier 2 and Tier 3 City Challenges: In Tier 2 and Tier 3 cities, people encounter prolonged waiting times, delayed services, and limited access to legal support. Existing platforms fail to cover vital local institutions, further compounding these challenges.
7. No Single Platform: Indian citizens lack a unified platform to address their legal and administrative needs comprehensively. Many existing platforms do not encompass crucial entities like Talathi Karyalaya and talathi vibhag, creating a gap in accessible services.
